"I don't think there's a better destination in the world to truly focus, be inspired, and make a year's worth of progress in just seven weeks. There is something special and extremely motivating in seeing my peers practice and perform and in spending time with such fine musicians and people. From individual lessons and chamber coachings to studio and technique class, I am sure that Meadowmount is the best environment in the world to develop as a young artist and as a person."

- 2026 Meadowmount Student

Founded in 1944 by legendary violin teacher Ivan Galamian, the Meadowmount School of Music is a seven-week summer program for violinists, violists, and cellists. Musicians ages 10 to 30 from around the world gather at the school's campus in the Adirondack Mountains in northern New York to immerse themselves in an environment where they can focus on personal and artistic development through intensive training with leading faculty, individual practice, chamber music, and performance opportunities. With a capacity enrollment of 190 on the 49-building, 240-acre campus, the school retains an intimacy that provides for personal attention and fosters camaraderie among students. Many students return year after year, and alumni retain strong connections and return as faculty and guest artists, ensuring the continuity of the Meadowmount teaching tradition.
